DYNAMIC DUO

Last Thursday was "Dress Like Your Teacher Day" at O'Hara Elementary School, but, instead, second-grader Da'Mier Micklow chose to model school resource officer Dennis Lynch.

DMS GARDEN GROWS HOPE

Seventh- and eighth-grade students in the leadership program at Dorseyville Middle School planted a "hope garden" in observance of World Mental Health Day and in conjunction with the Yellow Tulip Project. In the spring, the garden will fill with yellow tulips, which are universally recognized as a sign of hope. The Yellow Tulip Project is a youth-driven movement to shatter stigmas surrounding mental illness and build supportive communities for those who are struggling.

HELP IS AVAILABLE

Students and families in need of mental health assistance can contact a school counselor or visit www.fcasd.edu/mental-health-resources.

Visit Common Sense Media at www.commonsense.org anytime to find resources to promote the responsible use of media and technology.
